THE LETTER THAT PUT NIRVACHAN SADAN IN THE DOCK

Advocate Brajesh Singh's letter to Attorney General R. Venkataramani seeking consent for criminal contempt against CEC Gyanesh Kumar. The petition alleges wilful disobedience of the Supreme Court's rulings in T.N. Seshan v. Union of India and Anoop Baranwal v. Union of India after two Election Commissioners recorded 14 objections to decisions taken without their knowledge.

Gyanesh Kumar, Chief Election Commissioner, appointed under a law that the Supreme Court itself is now peering at with raised eyebrows, has been running the three-member Election Commission as if it were a one-man shop. That is not my adjective. That is the written record of his own two colleagues, Sukhbir Singh Sandhu and Vivek Joshi who, over ten long months, put their dissent on file fourteen times. Fourteen. Not corridor gossip. Not leaked WhatsApp. Official notes. "Unauthorised." "Illegal." "Without our knowledge."

On 23 September the Indian Express laid the papers on the table. The next morning advocate Brajesh Singh walked into the Attorney General's office with a letter that should make every citizen sit up:

The government has established the 'Telangana Traffic Management, Road and Rail Safety Bureau (TG-TMARS)', with the objective of not merely collecting traffic challans but managing traffic scientifically and ensuring emergency medical assistance. Chief Secretary Sanjay Jaju issued Government Order (GO) No. 135 to this effect on Thursday. The new system will function under the State Road Safety Council, headed by Chief Minister Revanth Reddy.

The special division will be headquartered in Hyderabad and headed by an officer of the rank of Additional Director General of Police (ADGP) or Inspector General of Police (IGP). A bench comprising Chief Justice Justice Surya Kant, Justice V. Mohan heard the petition. The Supreme Court made it clear that the High Court had correctly interpreted the relevant legal provisions and that there was no need to interfere with its judgment.

Key clarification on the Tenth Schedule

Senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi, appearing for Danam Nagender, argued that the Tenth Schedule contains provisions under which an act of giving up party membership could be condoned. Justice Joyimalya Bagchi responded humorously, asking, "Ghar wapsi?" ("Return to the original home?"). However, the bench clarified an important legal point.
